Opening Doors

OpenWays has developed a line-busting solution that removes the frustration associated with traditional hotel check-in.

Offering a Mobile Key that is securely sent over the air to a traveling guest's mobile phone prior to arrival at the hotel not only removes the need to stop at the front desk, but it alleviates any stress the traveler may feel anticipating delays and long waits at their destination hotel.

It's Personal

Personalization is forcing industries to shift their mindsets — from “producer-led segmentation” to “customer driven choice.” Expectations are growing. Consumers are moving beyond material goods and looking for personalized experiences.

Hotel or Hospital?

There is a rising trend among international hospitals to provide “medihotels” for their traveling clients.

In lodgings and accommodations owned and managed by the hospital and located close to the treatment venue, patients and their companions can enjoy the safety, convenience, and amenities of staying close to their medical centre of choice. These lifestyle-equipped facilities offer home-style comfort for longer stays.

Silver Society

The “silver” consumer segment is one of the biggest and most persistent trends all sectors are currently addressing. Hotels will need to pay particular attention to this growing population segment. They are becoming more brand wise, doing more, living longer & looking for new cultural and event-based experiences.

Authenticity

Travelers today have an increasing thirst for knowledge and learning. They are seeking authentic experiences. Cooking, art & culture, and other special interest themes are gaining attention, as are destinations that protect the environment and endangered species.

Boomer Bucket List

Globally, the UN projects that the population aged

65

and older will rise from

5% in 1950 | 7% in 2000 | to 16% in 2050

Within developed economies the proportion of people over

60 years old is expected to rise from

22% to 33%

between 2009 and 2050

In the developing world, it is forecast to grow from

9% to 20%

over the same period.

This demographic is generally “younger” and healthier than in the past and they are looking for fun, adventure, variety, comfort and ease.

Glocal

Glocalization is the concept that in a global market, a product or service is likely to succeed when it is customized for the locale or culture in which it is sold.

Cultural differences, local traditions and customs will need to be considered with more sensitivity in emerging markets.

Anti-Spa

INTERCONTINENTAL HOTELS GROUP is set to launch its brand EVEN in 2014. The first of 100 over five years!

It's not a spa; it's an “all-wellness” property, designed around the four pillars of healthy living: eating well, exercising, rest and productivity.

According to IHG, the fitness centre is “not an afterthought, but the hallmark of the brand.” EVEN will provide food regime, wellness experts and coat racks that morph into pull up bars.

Ecotel

Sustainability & Corporate Social Responsibility are becoming a differentiator in guest decision-making at all levels. More hotels are beginning to recognize their guests' desire to reduce their footprints by investing in greening, not green-washing, their operations.

Emerging Markets

There is a shift in wealth from the west to east.

India and China have captured

115 million Chinese tourists are expected to travel abroad each year.

GLOBAL TRENDS

“The most reliable way to anticipate the future is to understand the present.”

John Naisbitt, Megatrends

Definition of Boutique

Line breaks: bou | tique
Pronunciation: [boo:teek], noun

The word boutique infers a bespoke guest experience based on highly personalized service due to the limited number of guests. Generally it is deemed to be small hotels under 150 rooms, however the definition is transforming to meet the expectations of a new generation of millennial travellers.

Millennials

Line breaks: mil | len| nial
Pronunciation: [mil-len-ee-uh I], adjective, noun

Millennials are not a Western demographic (as perhaps Boomers were) but one that is pervasive across the planet. Millennials come from every continent and constitute an extremely large market particularly in emerging markets such as India, China, the Middle East and South America.

This demographic is emerging and burgeoning with its own set of unique and challenging opportunities for the hospitality sector. The following are some key trends across the hospitality industry which distinctly demonstrate the coming impact of the millennial demographic on the boutique hotel market.

Exclusivity

A Story

Unique properties in remote destinations are opening to cater to a new type of globetrotter wanting to experience nature, but not at the expense of comfort.

Meditation Retreats

Mind Matters

Consumers have caught on to mindful vacations that offer mental restoration. Practices learned on a trip can be incorporated at home to help manage stress, improve cognitive capacity and maintain emotional equilibrium.

1 in 5 ^[+/-]

spas now offers meditation or mindfulness training.

Wellness

Health focused travelers now represent

40% of the travel segment
[Gallup-Healthways Well-being Index]

‘Spas’ are going well beyond the standard facial and offering total wellness designed to promote health, well-being and transformation during your stay and beyond.

Technology Media

Social media platforms have become a global exchange of ideas, recommendations, complaints and more... fueling the marketplace.

“The postmodern consumer’s search for experiences that are engaging, personable, memorable - and above all, authentic is especially strong in tourism.”

UNWTO Tourism

Personalize

More than ever hotel guests desire personalized service. For the boutique hotel market this is the number one reason why boutique hotels are selected over the larger main line hotels. Some may argue new technology depersonalizes the unique experience of a boutique hotel, however we have found the integration of new technology frees the hotel associates up to actually spend more effort and focus ensuring guests’ experiences are personalized, exceptional and memorable. With the millennial demographic in particular, boutique hotels’ biggest marketing rewards are born out of social media.

Ecotel

Sustainability & corporate social responsibility are becoming a differentiator in guest decision-making at all levels.

Responsible Travel

93%

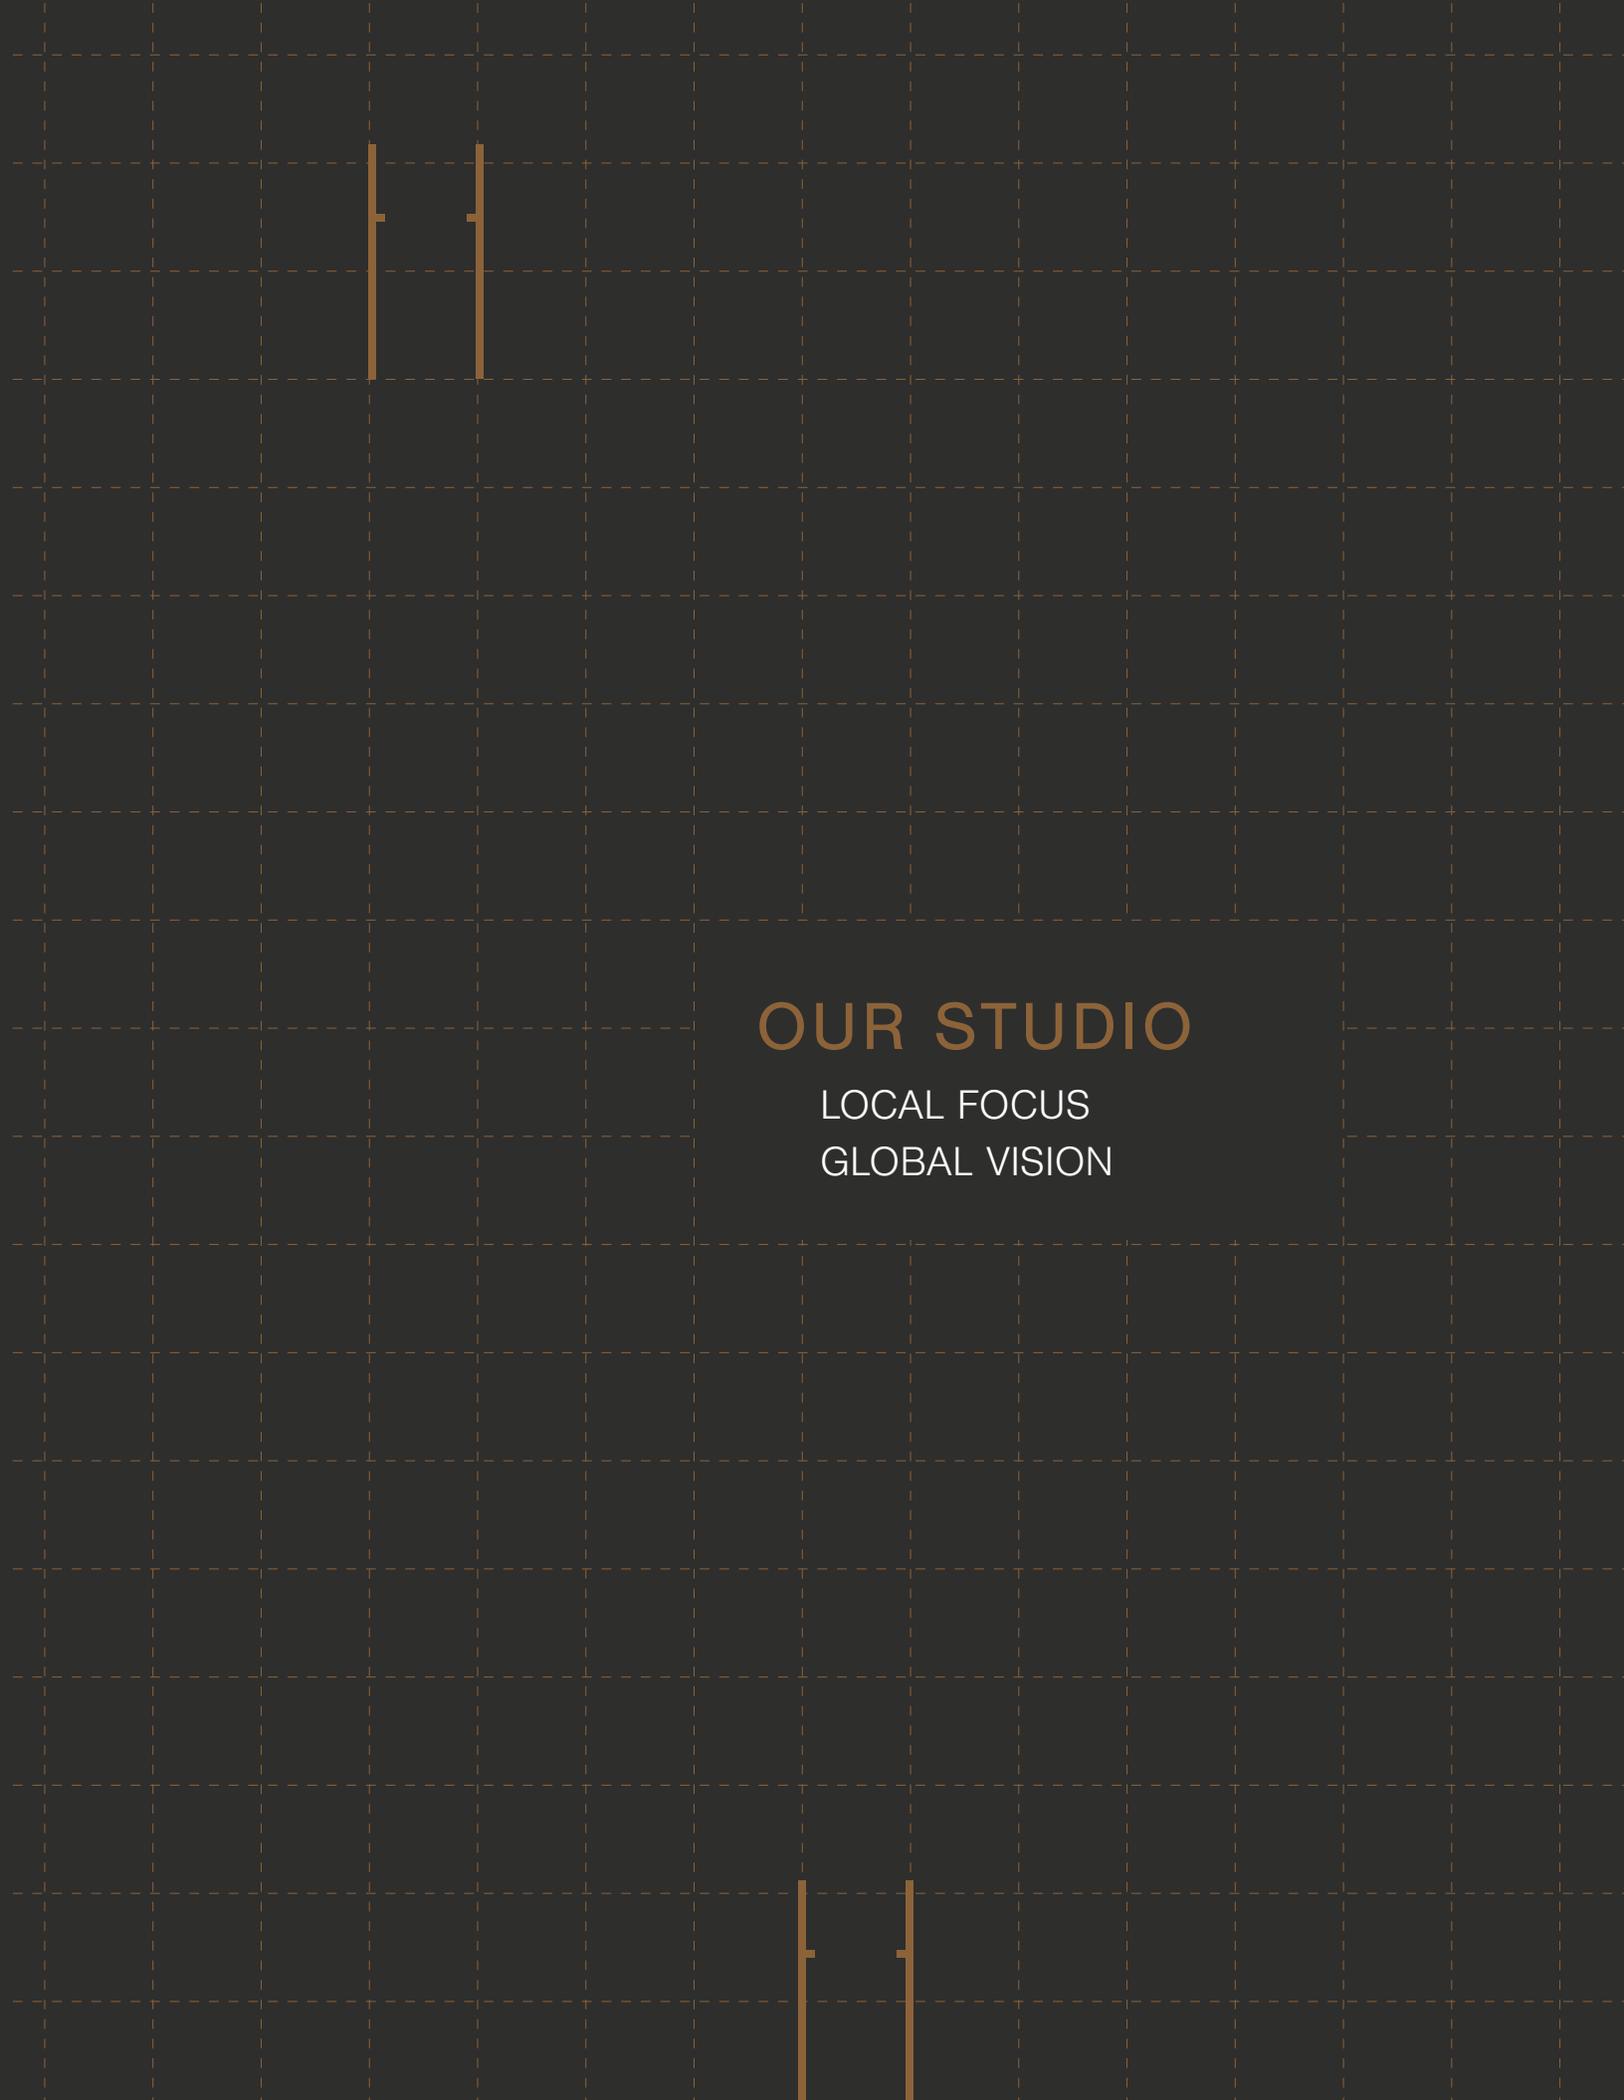

said that travel companies should be responsible for protecting the environment, and 58% said their hotel choice is influenced by the support the hotel gives to the local community, according to the UNWTO.

Authenticity

Millennials come from every continent on our planet yet they all have a common goal for travelling. They travel to have real experiences of other places. Millennials are forward-looking and unlike previous generations of travelers they want to understand the heritage of a place. Most importantly, they want to experience the current cultural diversity of every location they travel to and if the experience starts with their hotel, they will remember and recommend their experience more highly. Boutique hotels should now provide bespoke experiences to millennial guests by integrating strong cultural ties to each property and city they are in.

This is the second Shangri-La hotel in North America, following the acclaimed Shangri-La Vancouver. It occupies the first 17 floors of the building on University Avenue in downtown Toronto. CHIL Design was responsible for the function spaces, theatre, Miraj Hammam spa, gym, and 200 guestrooms including the owner's suite and the presidential suite.

The guestrooms feature modern bianco statuario marble washrooms with traditional Chinese vanities. The presidential suite also employs a traditional Chinese aesthetic, while delivering an elevated level of luxury. The spa provides visitors with an authentic experience of old world traditions brought into the modern day, inspired by the ancient rituals of the Middle East as well as the vineyards of Bordeaux – there are two large hammam steam rooms, a relaxing “Alhambra” room and nine treatment rooms including a dual treatment/couples suite and a Vichy room.

CHIL Design is honoured to have worked on one of Fairmont's distinctive historic properties. Set in the heart of Calgary, it is the city's oldest and most esteemed hotel, celebrating its centennial in 2014. The renovation included a transformation of 205 well-appointed guestrooms and heritage suites, as well as guestroom corridors. Each of the rooms is quite varied in layout and features which provides guests with a sense of uniqueness and adds to the charm of the property.

Conceptually, the driving force was to celebrate the beauty of this traditional landmark and further complement its rich history and architecture with elegant furnishings and finishes while incorporating the essence of the city. Original features such as the high ceilings with medallions, wall friezes and tall windows were refreshed and showcased. A feeling of contemporary sophistication was created with the layering of luxurious soothing tones and opulent textures. A look to Calgary's cowboy past was achieved with the use of masculine cognac and grey leathers, metal nailhead details and historic artwork, which was softened with warm neutrals and refined wood tones. Furniture pieces were designed to embody the fine balance between classic form and contemporary finishes. The small-scale bathrooms were reimagined with a focus on tailored and sophisticated finishes that combine the sparkle of chrome accents, white marble tile and dramatic stone countertops. For guests of The Fairmont Palliser, the result is a lasting impression created by a comfortable nod to the past and an inviting look to the future.

DoubleTree by Hilton is a fast-growing global collection of more than 350 upscale hotels in gateway cities, metropolitan areas and vacation destinations across six continents.

This meant closing the existing hotel for an 11-month construction period.

Hotel guestrooms are designed with fully equipped kitchens, restful spa inspired bathrooms, and full height glazing to take advantage of the surrounding mountain and city views. The connection to nature is further reinforced through a palette

CLIENT	RED DOOR GROUP

Located on the 40th floor of CapitaGreen Tower in the heart of Central Business District, Artemis Restaurant is a Mediterranean Grill Rooftop Bar & Restaurant with dining, indoor and outdoor bar areas. The design intent was to establish the restaurant as a landmark icon for those who appreciate contemporary Mediterranean cuisine accentuated with gastronomic nuances of organic produce. The design team – inspired by the Greek Goddess of heroic hunts in the natural wilderness – aptly proposed the name Artemis for the restaurant. The chosen scheme of black, creme, taupe and olive green – accompanied by a selection of stone, reclaimed wood, timber and bronze – sets the ambience exuding elegance, exclusivity, sophistication and sustainability. Vertical and hanging greens outline the outdoor bar areas, offering a natural forest-like sanctuary for diners away from the hustle and bustle of the city.

ARC RESTAURANT AT THE FAIRMONT WATERFRONT

LOCATION	VANCOUVER, CANADA
COMPLETION	2014
CLIENT	WESTMONT HOSPITALITY GROUP & OCEAN PACIFIC HOTEL GROUP

The restaurant was redesigned with this primary goal: create a new and engaging lounge with a more centralized bar, encouraging a relaxed and entertaining area separate from the remaining dining spaces. In addition to the new bar and lounge area, a chef's table serves dual purpose as a breakfast buffet. New banquette seating provides more intimate niches, while a new private dining area serves as a multi-purpose room used for both meetings as well as private parties.

ARC is located in the Fairmont Waterfront—but it's not the typical hotel restaurant. Bold material choices create a very warm, comfortable and contemporary look. Rich charcoals, hazy grays and mauves with accents of bronze and gold tones create a moody atmosphere. The West Coast feel is reflected in the furniture design. Both comfortable and classic, it provides a variety of options for guests and customers.

The sprawling space and accentuated arc in the floor plan made for a challenging design. The solution: dramatic lighting, dark tones and an overall rezoning of functions. As a result, this new restaurant was transformed to compliment the celebrated new menu and to offer a new distinctive dining experience for Vancouverites and visiting guests.

A 10-seat private dining room partially enclosed by curving, bottle-lined glass screens adds to the range of spaces. Comprised of 85 contemporary green residences in Vancouver's West End, the Alexandra's provides exceptional views and a strong connection to English Bay and Stanley Park. The project's interior spaces were influenced by; the clients' desire to deliver a modern, elegant and timeless building; the importance of contributing to an already diverse and dynamic neighbourhood, and the revitalization of 1930's heritage façade. It was imperative for the colour palette of the lobby, amenity spaces, and suites to have a unique sensitivity to the environment and site surroundings.

The direction for the vibrant use of colour in the common areas is set by the lobby's art installation (a partial recreation of a lost oil painting, entitled 'Nostalgia'). The suites' two colour schemes aim to bring nature's palette indoors with hues of the West Coast sand, sea, wood and stone. The neutral tones help to blur the line between interior and exterior space and allow the nearby ocean, mountain and city views to command attention.

INTERIOR DESIGNER OF RECORD

CHIL Interior Design has collaborated with other hospitality interior designers in the development and documentation of global luxury hospitality projects. The complexity and pace of large hospitality projects often requires the division and parceling out of projects by phase or specialty area to more than one design firm.

Our experienced designers bring the skills and experience of documenting and fine detailing to these highly collaborative efforts. With our reputation as skilled and thorough documenters we are often asked to take on the role of Interior Designer of Record – taking the initial concept design of other designers through design development and into documentation and detailing.

Our specialized field services team also provides the deep knowledge to guide the construction and delivery on site interpreting the design intent for unique and unforeseen conditions – representing the project's and the client's best interests.

The following pages highlight some of these joint projects where we have been responsible for compliance to international standards and complete documentation to enable bidding of the work and procurement of the furniture, fixtures and equipment (FFE), as well as a providing a professional site presence.
